

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

AUDITOR GENERAL OF THE FINANCES.

Department of the Auditor General,
Harrisburg, Pa., June 28, 1911.

Honorable John K. Tener, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Sir: In complinace with the provisions of Section 26, Act of May 1, 1876, entitled "An act to carry out the provisions of Section 12, Article 3, of the Constitution, in relation to the public printing and binding, and the supply of paper therefor," I have the honor to transmit herewith the annual report of this Department on the finances of the Commonwealth, for the fiscal year ending on the 30th day of November, A. D. 1910.

It may not be out of place at this time, and in this connection, to call your attention to the needs of the Department in the way of legislation regulating the settlement of public accounts, and the collection and disbursement of the public revenues which have increased so enormously as to amount to upwards of twenty-nine millions dollars ($29,000,000.00) per annum, and to suggest that this prodigious increase in the business of the Department calls for improved methods to meet the demands of changed conditions. In this behalf I will say that, in my opinion, some very valuable laws affecting this Department were enacted at the Session of the Legislature just adjourned, although bills were prepared, offered and considered, providing for legislation that I deemed very valuable and badly needed by the Department, that failed to become laws.

The Act approved June 15, 1911, entitled "An act making State taxes, unpaid bonus, interest, penalties and all public accounts a first lien upon the franchise and property of corporations, companies, associations, joint stock associations and limited partnerships, against which the same may be settled; providing for enforcing the payment thereof, and for the furnishing of certificates as to the existence of such liens upon applicataion therefor; and repealing Section 4 of the Act approved April 16, 1827," is a very valuable and important addition to the revenue laws of the Commonwealth. State taxes were a lien, from the time they were settled upon the franchises and property of corporations, companies, associations, joint stock associations and limited partnerships mentioned in the act, before this law was enacted, but unpaid bonus, interest penalties and some other public accounts were not liens at all. The 4th Section of the Act of April 16, 1827, authorizing and requiring the Auditor General to transmit to the prothonotaries of the respective counties of the Commonwealth, to be entered by them of record, certified copies of the liens which might thereafter arise upon accounts settled under the Act of 1811, as soon as the same had been settled and entered in the books of the accounting officers, and repealed by the Act of 1911, above referred to, had been so construed by the courts as to make the preservation of such liens depend upon the time such certified copies were so entered and whether or not other liens had intervened. As it is not necessary, and is practically impossible, to file such certified copies in all cases of tax and other settlements against corporations and public officers, it had become a practice to only file such certified copies of liens when a corporation or public officer was considered to be in failing circumstances. The uncertainty of the law as it thus stood, together with the fact that penalties, unpaid bonus and interest were not, like the State taxes with which they were associated in all collections, a lien upon the franchise and property of the corporation, etc., owing the same, resulted in the loss of a very considerable amount of taxes, bonus, penalties and interest each year.

By repealing said Section 4 of the Act of April 16, 1827, this Act makes the filing, by the Auditor General, in the office of a prothonotary of a transcript of a tax or public account settlement against a corporation, company, association or limited partnership unnecessary to preserve and hold good a lien therefor. It makes the records of the Auditor General's Department the evidence of such liens and provides that the Auditor General upon application to him and the payment of a fee of twenty-five cents, shall furnish a certificate as to the existence or non-existence, character and amount of such liens, and provides more definitely than had theretofore been provided for their collection in case of a failure to pay. This legislation tends to simplicity and makes the Auditor General's Department the only place to look for State tax or other public account liens against the franchise and property of a corporation, company, association or limited partnership.

Another valuable addition to the laws regulating the affairs of the Department is the Act approved June 21, 1911, imposing a penalty upon sheriffs, receivers, trustees, assignees, masters and other officers having charge of the sale of the property and franchises of corporations and associations, for failure or refusal to notify the Auditor General of such sale, and for failure to read at and immediately before the sale of such property a certificate to be furnished by the Auditor General showing the liens, if any, of record against such corporation in the Department of the Auditor General. These officers have, as a rule, neglected to perform this duty in the past, and the giving of these notices to the Auditor General will insure the collection of much tax that has heretofore been lost, and besides tend to protect purchasers by making good the title acquired at these sales, which is often bad for the reason that the taxes due the Commonwealth have not been paid prior to the sale.

Another meritorious addition to the laws regulating the affairs of the Department, at the last session of the Legislature, was the Act approved June 15, 1911, authorizing the Auditor General to bring, in the name of the Commonwealth, in any court having jurisdiction, appropriate suits at law or in equity by action of assumpsit, or otherwise, for the recovery of any money or tax due the Commonwealth, or property belonging to or liable to escheat to it, and to employ counsel, learned in the law, for that purpose. However, it is a matter of remark that Section 2 of this Act, which, as originally drawn, authorized the Auditor General to employ, from time to time, one or more expert accountants with power to inspect the books, accounts, documents or papers of any person or corporation liable by law to make reports to the Auditor General for the purpose of taxation or payment of bonus, and required them to report the result of their investigation to the Auditor General, was so amended on its passage through the House "that any such investigation shall be limited to the books bearing only upon the subject-matter of the tax upon which the appeal is taken." The Act in no way mentioned appeals except in this amendment, the result of which would be to make practically useless the very valuable provision this section originally contained, if it was not for the fact that Section 1 of the Act of April 28, 1899, P. L. 72, amending Section 12 of the Act of June 7, 1879, entitled "An act to provide revenue by taxation," provides "That the Auditor General and State Treasurer, or any agent appointed, in writing, by them, or either of them, are hereby authorized to examine the books and papers of any corporation, institution, company, or association, or limited partnership made taxable by this act, or any of its supplements, to verify the accuracy of any return made under the provisions of this or any other Act of Assembly," and practically the same provision is contained in Section 29 of the Act of June 1, 1889, P. L. 420. The effort made in this Act of 1911, to limit the power of the accounting officers of the Commonwealth to examine the books and papers of corporations, for the purpose of ascertaining the accuracy of reports made by them, to cases where appeals from tax settlements have been taken, failed for the reason that the act was insufficient in form to amend or repeal either the Act of 1889 or the Act of 1899, above referred to, and I deem it proper to suggest that any future attempt of this kind should be guarded against. While the information resulting from the examination of the books of persons and corporations is very valuable by way of aiding the accounting officers in ascertaining the tax, bonus, etc., that should be settled against such person or corporation, it would avail very little if this information could not be ascertained for use in such settlements, but only for use in the event that a person or corporation appeals from the tax settlement made against it and after the case gets into court. It is not sufficient that the Auditor General's Department can have the information necessary to arrive at the proper settlement of the tax only after an appeal is taken, for use at the trial of the case in court. The proper time for the Department to have that information, and all the information possible, is when the tax is first settled in the Department, that it may be correctly and intelligently settled in the first instance, making an appeal and trial of the case in court unnecessary.

Section 2 of the Act of March 30, 1811, gives the Auditor General the power to compel all persons in receipt or possession of public moneys to render to him their accounts, and to enforce the attendance at his office of such persons, whether party or witnesses, whom he may deem necessary to examine in the investigation of any public account; and he is "also invested with power to compel the exhibition or delivery to him (as the case may be) by any person possessing the same, in the manner hereinafter pointed out, of all official or public books, accounts, documents or papers which have any relation to or connection with any public account, and which he may deem necessary in the investigation and adjustment of the same;" and the 32nd Section of an Act provides that the manner of the compelling the delivery to the Auditor General of public accounts, books, documents, or other papers, is for him "to issue his summons, directed to the sheriff or coroner of the county in which the person or persons reside who neglect or refuse to exhibit or deliver public accounts, books, documents or papers to the Auditor General, commanding such sheriff or coroner to execute such writ, and procure the exhibition or delivery, as the case may be, of the same at his office,"—and in the case of a continued refusal "the said Auditor General may issue his writ or attachment commanding the said sheriff or coroner to commit the person or persons so neglecting or refusing to the common jail of the county, there to remain until he or they comply with this Act, or shall be discharged by due course of law."

In 1811 there was no tax whatever upon corporations as such—the total revenue of the State for that year amounted to $408,309.00, which was derived from tax upon licenses, court officers, writs, sale of public lands, etc. In 1910 the total revenue of the State amounted to $28,946,424.43, of which $17,210,422.85 was derived from corporations.

The method provided by the Act of 1811 for examination by this Department of the books, papers and accounts of public officers and persons with whom there are public accounts to settle, is bungling and cumbersome when applied to the settlement of public accounts under present conditions. Where in 1811 no corporations at all were taxed and the Auditor General could easily attend to investigating the books and accounts kept at the different sources of revenue in the State, the examination today of the records and accounts of all the registers and recorders in the State, all of the prothonotaries, county treasurers and county commissioners, involving the tax upon writs, wills and deeds, collateral inheritance tax, personal property tax, mercantile license tax, as well as the tax upon liquor licenses and licenses of all other kinds, and as to the liability of more than twenty thousand corporations for capital stock tax, corporate loan tax, the gross receipt tax, as well as for bonus, penalties, and interest charges, cannot be regulated or intelligently investigated from this Department by requiring the books of the different corporations, county and other officers to be presented at this Department for examination. The laws of the United States authorizes the sending of agents to examine the books and accounts at all sources from which Federal taxes are derived, including the books and accounts of corporations paying an income tax. The taxes amounting to over $17,000,000.00 now collected annually from the corporations of Pennsylvania, are based and settled against them upon the facts contained in the reports such corporations make of their affairs to this Department. All of the facts upon which this tax is based come to us through these reports, and it is very important that the accounting officers should not only have the authority to examine books and papers through agents appointed for that purpose when necessary, but they should have the power to appoint agents to examine the tangible property of corporations and associations, when deemed necessary, in order to ascertain as to the correctness of the reports upon which their taxes are based in that respect. I think it very creditable to the corporations of the Commonwealth that they return as much property for taxation as they do. Very many are painstaking and careful, while to others can be applied Burns' statement, that "If self the wavering balance shake, it's rarely right adjusted." If the local taxes were ascertained by sending word to the respective taxpayers of city, county, school and other local taxes, to send in to some authority the value of their property upon which their local taxes would be levied, I am afraid that much property that is now found by the assessor would escape taxation, and yet that is the way corporations and associations are assessed and taxed in Pennsylvania. The accounting officers of the Commonwealth have no authority to send an agent or officer to examine as to the physical property of corporations and the correctness of their reports in relation thereto (a need felt in the Department every day), although they have the authority to send an agent to examine the books and papers of corporations and associations.

One very defective feature of the law as it now stands is that it does not sufficiently enable the accounting officers to get full knowledge of the facts for use in the settlement of taxes in the first instance, and the result is that, by holding back facts, a corporation can delay a real settlement until a trial in court is reached. To remedy this condition a bill was presented to the last Legislature providing that "On any appeal from a tax or other public account settlement of the fiscal officers of the Commonwealth, no facts shall be admitted in evidence that were not brought to the attention of said fiscal officers in the report filed, or in an application, under oath, for re-settlement, prior to said appeal and set forth in the specification of objects contained in the affidavit accompanying the appeal, unless the court shall be satisfied that the appellant was unable, by the exercise of reasonable diligence, to have laid such evidence before the said fiscal officers." This bill failed to become a law, but such a law is greatly needed. Its effect would be to enable the court to compel a corporation or association to submit all of the facts involved in a settlement to the accounting officers in the first instance at the time of settlement, rather than by withholding information from the Department compel the accounting officers to make a settlement by guess, and, if the company or association is not satisfied, it will appeal and upon a trial in court will put in new evidence not considered by the accounting officers at the time they made the settlement appealed from, and which the Commonwealth is then unprepared to meet. Full and ample information in the reports is what is needed, what the accounting officers should have, and what is very often denied to them. While that bill was pending in the Legislature complaint was made that if it became a law corporations and associations would be prevented from giving in evidence on the trial of an appeal any fact that they had accidentally omitted from a report. This claim was entirely wrong and misleading. A corporation or association has sixty days after it is notified that a tax has been settled against it in which to take an appeal, and in the meantime, in an application for a re-settlement, it can allege as many new facts as it pleases, all of which, if otherwise competent, would thus be made competent evidence at a trial on the appeal—and further, a court in the exercise of the discretion vested in it by the proposed law would not see an appellant suffer any injustice if it had been reasonable diligent in its efforts to produce the important facts before the accounting officers.

The failure of the bill classifying and fixing the number and salaries of the clerks and employees in this Department is to be regretted. At present the Act of May 14, 1874, is the only law that attempts to define or regulate the employees of this Department. That law provides that the employees of the Department shall consist of one chief clerk, one corporation clerk, nine other clerks, one messenger and one watchman. Notwithstanding this, there are now employed in the Department, including the chief clerk and the corporation clerk, about sixty clerks, including also the five traveling auditors who do not work at the Capitol but travel over the State and audit the accounts of all institutions receiving appropriations from the Commonwealth. The Department has grown to such an extent that this large number of clerks, in excess of the number provided by the Act of 1874, is needed to properly transact its affairs—and their number and salaries are regulated by the discretion of the Auditor General, as he thinks the necessities of the Department and the proper performance of the services and duties incident thereto require, limited, however, by the amount of the appropriation at his disposal for that purpose. I am satisfied that, in consideration of the very important service they rendered the Commonwealth, many of them are now underpaid. It would be much better if the law defined the number of these employees and the compensation each should receive, rather than that the Auditor General shall have to do it as a matter of necessity and with an insufficient appropriation. The Act of 1874, above referred to, provides for one corporation clerk, whereas the Commonwealth collects over $17,000,000 annually from over 20,000 corporations, and the amount each shall pay is determined by the corporation clerk and his assistants from reports of its affairs made to this Department by the corporation, and in the absence of reports the Department estimates and settles a tax against a corporation, which, on account of insufficient information, is often inadequate. The judgment, integrity and discretion necessary to be exercised in the settlement of the prodigious amount of taxes the corporations are required to pay to the Commonwealth, and in deciding how much shall be paid by each one, is such that high-grade men are required for the service, and a much better provision should be made in regard to their number and compensation than now exists. The one corporation clerk of the Department now receives a salary of $3,000 per annum, and the assistant corporation clerk gets $1,800 per annum,—nobody else connected with this work is getting over $1,500 per annum, excepting the chief clerk, who sometimes assists, and he receives $3,000 per annum. They come in contact with attorneys in making these settlements who receive salaries or make in the practice of their profession before the Department and the courts all of the way from $10,000 to $100,000 and upwards per annum. The bill in question provided for three corporation clerks at $5,000 per year each, and one chief corporation clerk at $5,500 per annum. One case, properly adjusted, often brings to the Commonwealth an increase in taxes sufficient in one year to pay these salaries for several years. It is not only a question of the amount of taxes received, but it is a question of having this important work done correctly and the proper amount of taxes assessed against each of this class of over 20,000 tax payers—it is important alike to the taxpayer and to the Commonwealth. There is no official position in the State requiring a higher degree of integrity and ability than this—and the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should not seek cheap men for this practically unwatchable service. That bill also provided for two special agents at a salary of $2,000 per annum each, whose duties were to be to examine and report to the Auditor General as to the condition, property and liability to the Commonwealth of corporations, companies, associations, joint stock associations, limited partnerships and persons for the payment of State taxes, etc. This is a very important service and this Department should have the power to make such inquiry and investigation, and to appoint agents for that purpose—it is a different service than the examination of the books and papers of corporations which the Commonwealth now possesses the power to do, but it is equally important.

The report is arranged in the following order, to wit:

- I. Statement showing the receipts at the Treasury and the sources from which they are derived.
- II. Statement showing the payments at the Treasury and the purposes for which they are made.
- III. Statement showing the monthly receipts at the Treasury, their sources and objects.
- IV. Statement showing the monthly payments at the Treasury, their sources and objects.
- V. Statement showing the assessment of State tax on personal property in the counties of the Commonwealth.
- VI. Statement showing the several public loans of the Commonwealth, when authorized, for what purposes, amount of loan, rate of interest, when reimbursable, dates of maturity, amount outstanding, and when interest ceased.
- VII. Statement relative to the outstanding certificates issued in payment of interest on the Funded Debt due in 1842, 1843 and 1844.

VIII. Statement relative to the outstanding issues and re-issues of relief notes made by sundry banks, in pursuance of the Act of Assembly of May 4, 1841, and April 10, 1849.

IX. Statement relative to the outstanding certificates issued to domestic creditors.

X. Statement of the amount of stock held by the Commonwealth in divers incorporated companies.

XI. Statement showing the funded and unfunded debt of the Commonwealth on the first day of December, 1910.

XII. Statement showing receipts from delinquent corporations and other sources for the year ending November 30, 1910.

Respectfully submitted,

Valuation of Personal Property

V. STATEMENT.

Statement showing the valuation of Personal Property subject to taxation for State purposes for the years 1908, 1909, 1910; the tax at the rate of 4 mills for the year 1910; the amount of increase or decrease, for the year 1910 as compared with the year 1909; additional personal property secured for the year 1910 together with three-fourths of the net amount returnable to the several Counties of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

All mortgages and moneys owing by solvent debtors, whether by promissory note, or penal or single bill, bond or judgment, except notes discounted or negotiated by any bank or banking institution, savings institution or trust company.

All articles of personal property, including school bonds, except loans of the Commonwealth, of Pennsylvania, and the United States that are exempt from taxation, and loans of all public loans including school bonds, except loans of the Commonwealth, the tax upon which is collected by the treasurers of the respective counties, cities and boroughs, and paid directly to the State Treasurer.

All loans issued by or shares of stock in any bank, corporation, association, company or limited partnership created or organized under the laws of this Commonwealth or of the United States, or of any other State or government, including car-trust securities and loans secured by bonds or any other form of certificate or evidence of indebtedness, whether the interest be included in the principal of the obligation or payable by the terms thereof (except shares of stock in any corporation or limited partnership liable to the capital stock tax imposed by the fifth section of the act of June 8, 1891 (P. L. page 258), or relieved from the payment of tax on capital stock by said section, and except also shares of stock in incorporated state or national banks located within this Commonwealth, and the loans of corporations of this Commonwealth, or of corporations that operate and do business in this Commonwealth, the tax upon which is collected through the Auditor General's Department directly).

All moneys loaned or invested in other states, territories, District of Columbia or foreign countries, whether the same be loaned or invested in mortgages or judgments on farms or other property, or in loans to individuals or of corporations, firms or partnerships.

All other moneys on capital in the hands of individual citizens.

All railways, omnibuses, hacks, cabs and other vehicles, owned, used or possessed for transporting passengers for hire, except steam and street passenger railroads.

All annuities of a yearly value of over two hundred dollars (except those granted by the United States).

All personal property held or possessed as active trustee, agent, attorney in fact or otherwise, for the use, benefit or advantage of other person or persons, corporation or corporations, co-partnership or co-partnerships, unincorporated association or associations, company or companies, joint-stock association or associations, limited partnership or partnerships, bank or banks.
